December: walking in a winter wonderland

Hi {FIRSTNAME},

December is such a magical month! Far from being dormant, outdoor spaces are full of fantastic colours in December so now's the time to get working on maintaining them with my top December gardening jobs.

With the excitement of bonfire night behind us, we've wandered into a winter wonderland and some wildlife has begun to hibernate. For those nature lovers, you might want to check out my blog on ways you can care for our creature companions during the cold.

Towards the end of November I gave a talk at the Ideal Home Show Christmas about how to make your own delightful decorations. My demonstration included a wall hanging instead of a traditional wreath. I made this using holly, ivy and kiss-me-quick mistletoe so, for anyone who missed it, you can find instructions on this and other Christmas craft ideas on my website. Here you'll also find my festive gardening advent calendar for a spectacular surprise everyday of December!

Read on for more seasonal blogs, top tips and for your chance to win zillions of prizes in my ultimate Christmas giveaway. You never know, maybe you'll be the one to win a flurry of garden gifts in this colossal Christmas competition.

Merry Christmas and a happy New Year!
